Dialoging with religions in the Philippines October 9,

2017

This CRTN short film talks about the work of missionary Father Sebastiano D'Ambra, who started the Silsilah movement in the Philippines in 1983, a movement for dialogue with other religious communities.

Fr Sebastian is a very close friend of the Claretians working in Zamboanga City. A great example of inter-religious dialogue.

It is a joy to watch this video.
