

Commentary on the Gospel for Wed, Mar 23rd 2011

Ambition and competition, are just two of the motivators that urge us to achieve more; but at whose expense? Jesus as usual turns the world's perspective on its head. Service of others is the key to success. Power that is exercised in service of the good of others is the goal; not power over others controlling and dominating them. How often do you put your agenda aside and respond to the needs of others; or do you always feel you know best? As a follower of Christ, how much are you prepared to let go of and sacrifice?
