

Commentary on the Gospel for Sun, Sep 18th 2011

In parables with two points, like the one in the gospel today, the emphasis tends to fall on the second: in this case, the indignation of the first vineyard workers to the welcoming attitude of the vineyard owner. What is the point of being the first if we have a closed heart to those who come at the last minutes? True faith always goes beyond our right, it lets God be God.
