

Commentary on the Gospel for Mon, Oct 10th 2011

Everyday is a revelation of God's love. From the moment we wake up in the morning until the time that we retire at night, we encounter people; we hear stories of friends; we marvel at the unfolding of events in our lives. At the end of the day we ask God "Lord where were you during the day?" And God will tell us: "Wasn't I with you when you woke up in the morning and heard the birds singing, your friends laughing and when you encountered that little boy begging on the street?" What better song can we ask from God but the song of Jesus himself? We just have to discover the many times Jesus is showing himself to us in the faces of the people we encounter everyday:
