

Commentary on the Gospel for Sat, Dec 31st 2011

The person we remember today is none other than the Word made flesh. John masterfully presents the mystery of incarnation—that is, the divine who became human, God fully human and fully divine. We worship not an abstract idea or numinous energy but a person—someone whom we can relate with personally. This man—Jesus—has come to save.

BD