

Commentary on the Gospel for Mon, Mar 5th 2012

Lent is a time of reflecting on our relationship with God and with each other. We realise that we have not always lived as God's children and are able to ask for his mercy and forgiveness. Why do I particularly need to be forgiven? If we ask God to forgive us then we should be able to forgive others. God is the judge not us. Is there anyone I have judged with whom I can be reconciled?
