

Commentary on the Gospel for Wed, Oct 17th 2012

Jesus very strongly condemns the Pharisees and the teachers of the Law because they are a hindrance to the love of God and justice and for placing burdens on the people. The first reading gives us the fruits of a person led by the Spirit and what are the results if we live by the flesh or live for the desires of the flesh. If we keep the commands of Jesus and live according to the Spirit we will have love, joy, peace, ... Let us live for Christ, leaving behind everything that is worldly and that of the flesh.
