ST. JOSAPHAT, Bishop and Martyr

Memorial

November 12

Introduction

How tragic it is that "Christ is divided" in many denominations and sects... The Polish bishop Josaphat (1580-1623) dedicated much of his life in the 17th century to the reunion of the Orthodox Church with Rome. This task cost him his life. The work of Church unity is far from ended. There are still many obstacles in the way. Good progress has been made, though, toward mutual tolerance and respect.

Opening Prayer

One God and Father of all, St. Josaphat dedicated his life and his death to unite in one faith and love those who believe in your Son, Jesus Christ.
Let your Holy Spirit pour out his love in all those for whom Jesus is the ground and meaning of their lives.
Let this love unite us in one common bond of understanding and respect of one another and let this love dispose us to live for one another and to serve one another in our brother Jesus Christ, our Lord.

Prayer over the Gifts

Lord our God,
at his invitation, we gather at the table of your Son and we prepare ourselves to share his meal together.
As he has united us as his brothers and sisters, may the Holy Spirit keep us one in the life of every day.
Let him bind us together in strong and dedicated communities, in which we accept one another notwithstanding our differences.
Unite us in the one love of Jesus Christ, our Lord.

Prayer after Communion

Lord our God,
the Psalmist rejoices whenever brothers and sisters can live together in one love.
Let this become a reality among us who believe in our one Lord, Jesus Christ.
Let the deepest witnessing of our faith be, that we live for one another in the same unity that united your Son Jesus, with you, our living and loving God, now and for ever.
